How much do foster carers get paid in victoria

Foster care, respite or short term care is when carers take care of a child until the child. This may occur until the child turns 18. Children are placed in foster care as a result of a court order, or through a voluntary arrangement between the child’s parent and a foster care agency. Foster care families receive ongoing financial support from the Department of Human Services. Foster care agencies support foster carers through telephone calls, home visits, after-hours support and regular supervision sessions. Children placed in permanent care come through child protection services and it is not a voluntary placement. Financial assistance is available to help families cover some expenses. The Victorian Government’s Adoption and Permanent Care team is a good place to start for information, advice, support and referral to organisations that can help with the challenges permanent care families might face. Financial support from the Department of Human Services is available to help eligible parents care for a recently adopted child. Sometimes, for many different reasons, children need to be raised by a family other than the one they were born into. Adoption, permanent care and fostering are ways of bringing a child into your family. There are a number of family support services available, including financial support, to help foster carers, permanent care families and adoptive parents. Foster care is the temporary care of vulnerable children aged up to 18 years by foster carers. Children are placed in foster care for a range of reasons. Sometimes foster care occurs as a result of a court order, and sometimes it is through a voluntary arrangement between the child’s parent and a foster care agency. The Victorian Government funds foster care agencies (also known as ‘community service organisations’) to operate foster care programs, including specialist adolescent and therapeutic programs. Foster care agencies are responsible for supporting foster carers. You can expect the foster care agency to offer you support through telephone calls, home visits, after-hours support and regular supervision sessions. Your foster care agency can also provide ongoing training to help you develop the skills you need to meet the challenges faced as a foster carer. For more information, support and advice, contact your foster care agency. Foster Care Association of Victoria The Foster Care Association of Victoria offers an information and support service for foster carers. Visit the Foster Care Association of Victoria website to find out more about the Carer Information and Support Service and submit an online enquiry, or call the helpline service on (03) 9416 4292. Financial assistance for foster carers The Department of Human Services provides foster care families with ongoing financial support. The fortnightly non-taxable allowance contributes to the costs of the child’s food, clothing and other expenses. A number of other payments and reimbursements are also available for certain foster children and situations including for those families who are caring for a child with disability or a medical condition. See the Department of Human Services Financial guide for home-based carers. You may also be eligible for a Foster Child Health Care Card if you are a foster carer, or caring for someone else’s child. See the Department of Human Services website for more information on the types of payments you might be eligible to receive. The Foster Care Association of Victoria provides a number of useful information sheets on its website, including some on financial assistance for foster parents. See the Foster Care Association of Victoria website for details on current Centrelink entitlements and education entitlements. Support services for permanent care families Children placed in permanent care come through child protection services. Unlike adoption, it is not a voluntary placement. The Victorian Department of Health & Human Services and the courts make decisions about the safety of children and whether a child will be placed with a permanent care family. In most cases, children in permanent care will still have contact with members of their birth family. You would have financial responsibility for the child, but financial assistance is available to help with some expenses. Find information about payments for families from the Department of Human Services website. Children placed in permanent care often come from disrupted backgrounds and may have experiences of neglect, abuse and rejection. Some have a physical or intellectual disability. They may have had many changes of carers, schools and living arrangements. Their birth parents may have struggled with a mental illness, or alcohol or drug addiction. This can lead to challenging behaviour and difficulties in forming trusting relationships. The Department of Health & Human Services is a good place to start for information and referral for help. There is an Adoption and Permanent Care team in each Department of Health & Human Services region across Victoria. Services include: applicant assessment placement of children post-placement supervision counselling. Contact your Adoption and Permanent Care team for further information. If you are unsure which team covers your area, your Department of Health & Human Services division can assist you in several offices. See the Permanent care fact sheet for more information and contact details for the Adoption and Permanent Care teams. Support services for adoptive parents Adoption means that the people caring permanently for the child become the child’s legal parents. This affects the child’s name, birth certificate and inheritance rights. About 20 babies in Victoria are placed for adoption each year. The Department of Health & Human Services’ Adoption and Permanent Care team is a good first place to find information and referral for assistance to adopt a child. Find the Adoption and Permanent Care team nearest you. Financial assistance for adoptive parents The Department of Human Services provides financial support to help eligible parents care for a recently adopted child. You or your partner may be eligible for: Parental Leave Pay or the Newborn Upfront Payment and Newborn Supplement paid with Family Tax Benefit Part A Dad and Partner Pay Family Tax Benefit Parenting Payment. Check your eligibility with the Department of Human Services. Assessed and approved foster, kinship, permanent and special needs local adoption carers are eligible to receive care allowances where the Victorian child protection service or a registered community service organisation places a child (aged 0 to 18 years) in their care. The allowances are not a ‘payment’ for being a carer and is therefore not considered to be a source of income for the purposes of annual tax returns, testing eligibility for Australian Government allowances, or when applying for loans from financial institutions. The care allowance is paid fortnightly by the Victorian Department of Health & Human Services and is intended to contribute to a range of day-to-day expenses incurred in the provision of care. For advice about care allowances, please contact the Victorian Department of Health & Human Services Care Allowances Helpdesk by phone on 1300 552 319 or by email at caregivers.mgt@dhs.vic.gov.au for assistance. MacKillop is an accredited Sanctuary organisation. The Sanctuary model focuses on safety, and understanding how past adversity and trauma can affect people’s behaviour. It recognises that trauma also affects the carers who work with traumatised people. Sanctuary helps carers form communities that are supportive and caring. Foster care payments State governments provide financial support to foster carers. Carers receive regular payments to cover some of the costs of caring for a child, such as food, utilities, clothing, school needs, recreational activities, medical and dental costs. Foster care payments are tax-free. The government determines the rates, which vary depending on the child’s age and needs. Here are links to the rates of payment for the three states in which MacKillop operates: New South Wales Victoria Western Australia If you have any questions about support for foster carers, please call us on 1300 791 677.
